Perapali Anjaiah

Anjaiah is 45 years old living in Gangadhara mandal and had 3 daughters and a son. At the age of six he was affected with Polio and the family members went into deep depression as he was the only son in the family. Due to this reason he started his education at the age of ten. He faced much discrimination in the society and he was habituated to that kind of life style. After his marriage his problems grew bigger he waited for two years for the approval to start telephone booth. After establishing his own business his life has been changed .He contested in panchayat elections in the village.

As a leader with disability the interaction with NPdO team and the activists helped a lot in gaining on additional strength, He got good awareness on the rights and the entitlements of the PWDs and now he is sensitizing the other persons with disabilities. He is motivating the disabled community to fight for their entitlements like pensions, tricycles, certificates and other benefits. With his efforts his reputation has extended to the other villages and gathered goodwill as a good and kind hearted person.

He is thankful to the network team members for giving strength to serve the community as well as himself. His efforts and the passion to bring awareness among the PWDs is praise worthy.
